Now I have a few questions on the issue of immigration reform....

Q4 In your opinion, how high a priority should it be for Congress to pass immigration reform legislation that includes an earned path to citizenship for undocumented immigrants -- should it be a very high priority, a high priority, a medium priority, a low priority, or not a priority for Congress?

A very high priority.....	37
A high priority.....	32
Total High Priority.....	69
A medium priority.....	18

Refused.....	1

Q5 Recently, a bipartisan group of Democrats and Republicans in the United States Senate approved an immigration reform plan that includes an earned path to citizenship for undocumented immigrants. To become law, the legislation also needs to be passed by the House of Representatives. If the House blocks immigration reform and prevents it from passing, will you personally feel angry about that or not? (IF YES, ASK) Will you feel very angry or somewhat angry?

Very angry.....	34
Somewhat angry.....	24
Total Angry.....	58
Not angry.....	39

Q7 As you may know, many Republicans in the House of Representatives oppose immigration reform with an earned path to citizenship and are working to stop it from passing. If Republicans do block the immigration bill, would you be more likely to vote for Republican candidates in the future, less likely to vote for Republican candidates, or it would not affect your vote either way?

Q8 Now I'd like to get your reaction to some statements made by individual Republicans in Congress who oppose immigration reform that includes a path to citizenship. For each one, please tell me if this gives you a more favorable, or less favorable opinion of the Republican Party as a whole? Is that much more/less or somewhat....

Q10. When you think about Republicans in Congress who are trying to block immigration reform with a path to citizenship, and prevent it from passing, what words or phrases would you use to describe these Republicans? (PROBE:) What other words or phrases would you use to describe Republicans in Congress who oppose immigration reform? (RECORD OPEN-END RESPONSES)

Q11 Now getting to the end of the survey, please suppose for a moment that Republicans in the House of Representatives do block the immigration reform bill with a path to citizenship, and Congress fails to pass immigration reform this year, will you then have a very favorable, somewhat favorable, somewhat unfavorable, or very unfavorable impression of the Republican Party [COMPARE TO Q2]
