Q14. Last year, Republican candidate for Governor Ken Cuccinelli compared our immigration policy to the policy for controlling rats. He said dealing with immigrants was like dealing with rats -- quote "If you don't move an animal at least 25 miles away, it will come back, it will cross a river. You can't break up rat families... it is worse than our immigration policy." End quote. Does this statement make you feel...

Methodology

Latino Decisions interviewed 400 Latino voters and 400 Asian American voters participating in the Virginia 2013 general election. Voters were contacted by landline and cell phone between November 1- November 4. Latino respondents had the option to take the survey in English or Spanish and Asian American respondents had the option to take the survey in English, Korean, Mandarin, Tagalog, or Vietnamese, at their choosing. Initial sampling was based on Latinos and Asian Americans who had voted in the 2009 election, or newer registrants who voted in both the 2010 and 2012 general elections. To take the survey, respondents were asked if they had already voted early or by absentee ballot, or if not, if they were certain to vote in the Nov 5 election. Each ethnic group sample carries a margin of error of +/- 4.9%.

Q17a. Even though a majority of members in the House of Representatives support the comprehensive immigration bill, Speaker of the House, Republican John Boehner has said he will not allow the House to vote on the bill unless a majority of Republicans members support it. If Republican John Boehner, who is in charge of the Congress, does NOT allow the immigration bill to move forward and have a vote, will you feel...

Q17b. Even though a majority of the Republican members in the House of Representatives oppose the comprehensive immigration bill, the Speaker of the House, Republican John Boehner could allow the bill to move forward if a majority, made up of both Democrats and Republicans, agree. If Republican John Boehner, who is in charge of the Congress, allows the immigration bill to move forward for a bipartisan vote, will you feel...

Methodology

Latino Decisions interviewed 400 Latino voters and 400 Asian American voters participating in the Virginia 2013 general election. Voters were contacted by landline and cell phone between November 1- November 4. Latino respondents had the option to take the survey in English or Spanish and Asian American respondents had the option to take the survey in English, Korean, Mandarin, Tagalog, or Vietnamese, at their choosing. Initial sampling was based on Latinos and Asian Americans who had voted in the 2009 election, or newer registrants who voted in both the 2010 and 2012 general elections. To take the survey, respondents were asked if they had already voted early or by absentee ballot, or if not, if they were certain to vote in the Nov 5 election. Each ethnic group sample carries a margin of error of +/- 4.9%.
